History of Illustration – Adjunct Instructor

The Columbus College of Art & Design (CCAD) is seeking Part Time Adjunct Instructor for our History of Art and Design Department to teach History of Illustration beginning in the FALL 2016 semester. CCAD’s campus is a vital and growing “urban learning village” of 1,350 students located in downtown Columbus, a smart, open, and growing city with a metro-area population of 1.4 million. Offering BFA and MFA degrees, the College, as a matter of values and practice, focuses on the development of applied creative thinkers.

Course Details: This is team-taught, integrated class between Illustration and Art History. It will introduce first year students to the discipline of Illustration through a combination of studio based projects as well as lectures and discussions on the history of Illustration. Featuring research, writing, presentations and projects that integrate the historical contextual material into studio work, various thematic topics will be explored such as print/publication materials, sequential narratives, and design imagery. The course engages lecture, discussion, projects, activities of critical inquiry, observation, analysis, research, and writing to hone Illustration studio practice, aesthetic vocabulary, and communication skills as well as provide a foundation in the history of the discipline.

A master’s degree in art or design history, or a related field, is required. Previous teaching experience preferred.

Resumes will be accepted until filled.
