History of Interior Design – Adjunct Instructor

The Columbus College of Art & Design (CCAD) is seeking Part Time Adjunct Instructor for our History of Art and Design Department to teach History of Interior Design beginning in the FALL 2016 semester. CCAD’s campus is a vital and growing “urban learning village” of 1,100 students located in downtown Columbus, a smart, open, and growing city with a metro-area population of 1.4 million. Offering BFA and MFA degrees, the College, as a matter of values and practice, focuses on the development of applied creative thinkers.

Course Details: This blended studio and history of design course will introduce first-year students to the field of interior design through a combination of studio-based projects, lectures, field trips, and activities. Concurrently running with the studio, lectures, discussions, and activities on the history of design (both contemporary and historical) will be incorporated throughout the semester. This overview of interior design will expose students to the diverse needs and experiences of users, the ethical, social, cultural, and political issues facing designers today, as well as provide an overview of a variety of project types and professional interests interior designers may have in the professional field. Each studio project will integrate concepts covered by examples in the history lessons.

A master’s degree in art or design history, or a related field, is required. Previous teaching experience preferred.

Resumes will be accepted until filled.
